Firewood ALERT!

Conserve Indiana's ash trees:

Don't remove firewood!

Firewood restrictions continue in 2007 in an effort to reduce the impact of the emerald ash borer (EAB) at Indiana DNR properties. Hardwood firewood from lower Michigan, Illinois, Ohio or any Indiana county with an EAB quarantine cannot be brought to an Indiana state park, reservoir or state forest. Hardwood firewood from any of these locations can be confiscated.

The emerald ash borer is a wood-boring beetle that kills ash trees. Millions of trees in Indiana and neighboring states are threatened by this invasive insect. Movement and use of infected firewood is the leading cause of its spread.

You are the best weapon we have to fight this threat. Don't move hardwood from across state lines or from a county that has an EAB quarantine. Current county quarantine information is available at www.emeraldashborer.info. Burn all the firewood you bring or buy - don't leave it behind for other campers.

Thanks for your cooperation!
